

Understanding and Accessing the Full Continuum of

Special Education Placement Options

Workshop and Free IEP Clinics

All students with disabilities are entitled to a free, appropriate education in the least restrictive environment. But who decides what is “appropriate” for a particular child, and what constitutes the “least restrictive environment?” Whether the placement is yet undecided, the general education classroom with all necessary supports, services, accommodations and modifications, or a private school, parents often find themselves in the role of advocate.

In this 90-minute program, parents will learn:

- WHO makes placement decisions?
- WHAT to do when disagreements arise?
- WHEN services, supports, modifications and accommodations must be considered?
- WHERE students with disabilities can receive special education services?
- HOW the placement decision is made?
- WHY placement should be one of the LAST things discussed in the IEP meeting?

Get 1:1 Help:

Through Hinkle, Fingles & Prior's IEP Clinic, families can receive a free 20-minute IEP review with one of the firm's attorneys who will review the IEP, point out any weaknesses, and provide guidance on what can be done to resolve any deficiencies.

A limited number of appointments will be offered each night.
